

WHY P. E. O. CLUB
WAS RULED OUTMistake in Wording of Telegram
Causes Trouble.

ECHO OF THE LATE BIENNIAL

CHARGES MADE WHICH LOCAL WOMEN STRONGLY REFUTE.

A QUESTION as to the wording of a telegram has caused trouble between the General Federation of Women's clubs and the local chapter P. E. O. The message was in reference to the representation of the P. E. O. in the federation at the recent meeting in Los Angeles, and from its construction has arisen a dispute as to whether the local club misrepresented itself in order to gain admittance to the federation.

The stand taken by the president of the federation would indicate that it did, while the president and members of the local club declare that no misrepresentation whatever was made, that it is only a mistake somewhere.

Upon this message the society was told to send a delegate, but after she arrived she was refused a voice in the convention on the grounds that the telegram had been misleading as to the character of the club, which is a secret organization, and not entitled to representation, according to the rules of the federation.

Local Women Stirred Up.

The local members are considerably stirred up over the matter as the stand taken by Mrs. Dennison, the president of the federation, is in conflict with that of Mrs. Charles McMahon, the president of the P. E. O. of this city.

It is one of the rules of the general federation to permit no secret clubs to have representation in the convention, and the trouble came about in this way: When preparations were being made for the convention in Los Angeles, the local P. E. O. club wrote and asked for a delegate to represent the organization as a secret one or not. Mrs. McMahon, the president, replied by telegram, and, according to her statement, said:

"Yes, but constitution and by-laws are not secret."

This message was sent to Mrs. Dennison, and upon favorable reply, the club elected Mrs. McMahon to represent them in the federation, and sent her to California. When she arrived there and appeared to claim a seat and a vote, the credentials committee refused her a vote, saying they had learned that the organization was a secret one, and that her telegram had stated that it was not.

Denied a Vote.

They agreed to allow her a seat in the convention, but no voice in its proceedings. The matter of the telegram was brought up, and Mrs. Dennison, it is asserted, declared that the message received from Mrs. McMahon, regarding the nature of the club, stated: "Its constitution and by-laws are not secret," leaving off the "yes," which Mrs. McMahon says was in the message she sent.

Mrs. Dennison did not have a copy of her telegram to show, but contended that it had been misleading about the nature of the society, and indicated very clearly, it is asserted, that the society had misrepresented things in an effort to secure recognition by the federation.

Mrs. McMahon contended that her message had stated the facts as they were, but her statements were apparently of no avail, for she was not allowed a voice in the convention.

Does Not Want Damages.

When it became known that Mrs. McMahon had been denied a vote, the rumor became current that she was going to demand $200 damages from the federation because of the fact that her club had gone to the expense of sending her there to represent them, and then she was refused a voice. She did not do this, however, and denies now that she had any intention of doing any such thing.

When she returned, Mrs. McMahon reported the matter to her club, and it caused no little stir among the members. Mrs. McMahon declares that she stated in her message that the club was a secret one and that the club was given permission to send a delegate, but she was denied a vote after going there under the impression that the club would be recognized. She is certain that the telegram contained the word "yes," which Mrs. Dennison said it did not, and upon advice of the club she has now written to Los Angeles for a copy of the original message to sustain her in her statement.

The members of the club feel that the declarations of Mrs. Dennison have placed the local club in a very bad light before the women's clubs of the city, and they want to see their president's word vindicated. They believe the whole affair is the result of a mistake.

GOES TO ASYLUM AGAIN.

Officers Decide That Liberty Should Be Denied Alma Pratt.

Alma Pratt, who has spent fifty-five of her fifty-six years in Utah, was adjudged insane yesterday and ordered committed to the asylum. When called before the examining board, Mr. Pratt was asked if he knew why his presence had been required.

"Yes," he answered, with a smile, "I have been told that I am charged with being insane. I would like to say, though, that if every man in Salt Lake has his insane brought in here there wouldn't be many people left. You can go out on the streets and pick up hundreds of them."

Mr. Pratt imagines that he has authority over the canyons and mountain streams, and has recently given a number of persons trouble in City Creek canyon. In several instances people were attacked by him, while others were only badly frightened. Mr. Pratt asked that he be allowed counsel, and N. V. Jones was called in to represent him.

The physicians, after examining a number of witnesses, held that it would be dangerous to the community to longer allow the unfortunate man his liberty, and he was accordingly committed to the asylum. He has already spent five years in the asylum. His present condition is believed to be due to the excitement of Decoration day, when he had charge of the children in the parade.

REGISTRARS APPOINTED.

The county commissioners have announced the appointment of the following additional registrars:

District 28—Bell White, rear 41 North Second West.

District 30 (Hingham)—J. H. Greger.

District 22—R. G. Williams, 27 South First West.

District 34—Agnes R. Smith, 133 Forest avenue.

The foregoing registrars are all Republicans. Democrats were selected as follows:

District 20—Mrs. Mary Katz, Third North, between First and Second West.

District 54 (Farmer)—Herbert Van Dine.

District 71 (Crescent)—Richard Fairbourne.

The remaining vacancies will be filled on Monday next.

IN GUARDED MOMENT
MORTENSEN LOOKED BACK

shovel in Peter Mortensen's barn. It was almost as though it had been washed. The witness identified the shovel, and it was admitted in evidence. Mr. Busby was going on to testify that he fitted the shovel to marks in the ground, but this was not admitted.

On cross-examination, the defense attempted to show that Busby took Mrs. Peter Mortensen and Mrs. Henry Mortensen to the county attorney's office and told them they would be compelled to answer all questions, but he denied that he brought them uptown or was even present in the county attorney's office with them. The attorneys evidently mistook him for some other deputy. He said he had examined the premises of Peter Mortensen thoroughly.

"Did you find a drop of blood?" demanded Mr. Stewart.

"No, not a drop," was the rejoinder.

Joseph E. Jensen of Forest Dale, a salesman for the Granite Lumber company, testified that he was working in his house until about 10 o'clock on the night of Dec. 18. His house is situated about two and a half blocks from the grave. At about 9:30 he heard a shot. It came from the direction of the grave. He was put through a searching cross-examination.

Heard Shots Frequently.

"Isn't there considerable shooting out that way?" asked Mr. Stewart.

"Oh, once in a while you hear a shot."

Local Women Stirred Up.

"Boys are out shooting birds frequently, are they not?"

"Not at that time of night," was the reply.

"You may call John Allen," said Mr. Eichnor.

The young man came forward and took the witness stand. On the night of Monday, he testified that he was running as motorman on the line that runs along Seventh East street, commonly known as the Calder's park line. "Do you remember your last trip that night?" asked Mr. Eichnor.

"Yes, sir."

"At what time did you make it?"

"At Mr. Calder's coming in at 10:15."

"At what time did you reach the Rio Grande Western tracks on Twelfth South street?"

"About 10:20, as near as I can place it."

"State whether or not, when you reached that intersection, you saw any person?"

"Yes."

"Where was that person?"

"Walking westward on the railroad track."

"How far was that person from you?"

"When I first saw him he was on the crossing about 200 feet ahead of me."

"When you reached the crossing, Mr. Allen, what distance was that person from you?"

"About sixty or seventy feet. I should judge."

Says It Was Mortensen.

"Who was the man, if you know?" asked Mr. Eichnor.

"Mortensen," came the response, quietly.

"The defendant, Peter Mortensen?"

"Yes, sir."

"What was he carrying, if anything?"

"A shovel."

"Did you see his face?"

"I did."

"Did you ever see him before?"

"Yes, sir."

"Where?"

"Riding on that line and on the Waterloo line. I have seen him on occasions on those lines for the past two or three years."

"You are positive this defendant is the man?"

"I am positive he is the man I saw."

The cross-examination here begun, and at the hour of adjournment, one hour and fifty minutes having elapsed, it was not concluded.

"Didn't you say to Mr. Nixon a month ago that you were not positive it was Mortensen you saw?" asked Mr. Stewart.

"I did not. I never said that to anyone."

He Also Knew Hay.

To test his collection, Mr. Stewart asked Allen if he knew James R. Hay.

"Yes, by sight."

"What was Hay's complexion?"

"About the same mine (medium light), if I remember correctly."

"Are you sure it wasn't black hair?"

"Well, I told you it was the same as mine. I don't know whether you call mine black or green."

"And you say this man turned around and looked at the car?"

"Yes."

"And he had a shovel?"

"Yes."

"Where was the shovel?"

"Over his shoulder."

"You were sixty or seventy feet from him?"

"Yes."

"And you saw the shovel?"

"I saw what I took for a shovel."

"It might have been a pitchfork?"

"Yes, it might have been, but I took it for a shovel."

"You have talked to Mr. Eichnor about this case?"

"I have."

"What did he tell you?"

"That he wanted the truth; nothing more."

How Mortensen Was Dressed.

"Mr. Allen, didn't you tell Pearl Hill, the barber, that you were not positive the man you saw was Mortensen?"

"I never did."

"Going back to the railroad crossing, the attorney asked how long the defendant, or the man he saw, had looked at the car."

"Only a second or two."

"You were dressed?"

"He had on black dress overcoat. I should say; a black stiff hat and black pants."

"You are positive of that?"

"Yes, sir; that's how it looked to me."

"Now, see here. You are guessing who it was on that track?"

"Oh, no, I'm not."

"You are simply guessing."

"I am not."

"You mean to say you can identify that man in the dark sixty feet away?"

"I thought I did," answered the witness, in a sarcastic tone.

"Oh, you thought you did?"

"Yes, I know I did."

"Why did you say you 'thought' so?"

"Did I say that?"

"You did."

"Well, I know it."

Thought He Was a Spotter.

"What prompted you to look at him so closely?"

"I thought he was a spotter."

Witness went on to state that he had run by a crossing the day before without stopping and someone had threatened to report him to the company. That's why he was particular to look at the person.

"Then if you were afraid of spotters, why was it that you didn't stop several feet from the crossing as the rules require, instead of twenty-five feet away, as you have testified?"

"I was going too fast, and it didn't occur to me at once that the man might be a spotter."

The remainder of the examination was quite futile. Allen clung to the story and gave tart retorts occasionally. Once the district attorney objected to the "savage way of examining the witness," but the witness seemed fully able to take care of himself.

Mr. Allen was still on the stand, under cross-examination, when adjournment until Monday morning.

Fourth Annual Convocation of Episcopal Church Is Held.

Bishop Leonard called to order the fourth annual convocation for this district of the Episcopal church yesterday morning at St. Mark's cathedral. The bishop's ordination sermon and the ordination of William Hoff to the order of deacon were interesting features of the session.

In his sermon Bishop Leonard spoke of the need of energy and enterprise. Twentieth century men were required, he said, for twentieth century labor, but first of all, he held that they must be men of wisdom and filled with the spirit of God.

Dean Eddie presented Mr. Hoff as the candidate for the office of deacon, and the usual ceremony followed. Mr. Hoff for the past six months has held charge of the Episcopal church work in Breckenridge, Colo. He is well known in Salt Lake, having taught in the Lowell school and in the High school here.

The convocation continued in the afternoon and last evening Bishop Leonard delivered his annual address on the condition of the diocese.

The women's auxiliary branch of the church held interesting sessions. Mrs. Marvin, wife of the chaplain at Fort Douglas, spoke on missionary work among the soldiers. Mrs. Yardley read a paper on missionary work in Japan, and remarks were made by Dean Eddie and the Rev. C. E. Perkins.

JUDGE REDWINE AFRAID TO TRY FEUDISTS

Lexington, Ky., June 6.—John Johns, an attorney of this city, returned today from Jackson, Ky., where he went to defend Thomas Cockrell, charged with murdering Ben Hargis several months ago. Johns says the court and bar of Jackson are in terror over threats on both sides of the Cockrell and Hargis factions, and that Judge Redwine refused to act on the application for a change of venue because of fear of his own life and the lives of others. Governor Beckham has been appealed to and has the matter under advisement. Johns says the county is bordering on revolution, and bloodshed is expected.

Chicago, June 6.—Sitting on Wooded island in Jackson park, with a copy of "The Sorrows of Satan" at his side, Arthur Dee James, 36 years old, has committed suicide by cutting his throat and gashing his left wrist with a razor. His motive for the act is a mystery. James was employed as a city salesman for a local flour company, whose officials say his accounts are straight and that he was to have received today a raise in wages of $5 a week.

It is said he was engaged to a young woman in the south.

ANTI-ANARCHY
DEBATE CLOSEDSenate Spends Day Discussing
Canal Routes.

ROOSEVELT IS CONDEMNED

PRESIDENT'S MEMORIAL ADDRESS SEVERELY CENSURED.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—General debate on the anti-anarchy bill closed today. The incident of the day was a speech by Mr. Richardson, an Alabama Democrat, condemning the president in severe terms for the references in his Memorial day oration at Arlington to the epithets applied to Lincoln and Grant during the civil war and for his allusions to lynchings. He declared that the president's remarks violated the proprieties of the occasion.

Mr. Littlefield led in the argument of an hour and a half in closing the debate on the anti-anarchy bill. The section of the senate bill providing a guard for the president was stricken from the senate bill as a precaution in case the house substitute failed. An effort was made to strike from the first section of the substitute the words limiting the crime of killing the president to the president in his official capacity, but the motion was lost 65 to 35.

Only one section had been disposed of when the house adjourned.

At the opening of the session of the house today, Mr. Hull, chairman of the committee on military affairs, reported back the resolution requesting information as to salary or other compensation paid General Leonard Wood during the occupation of Cuba. The committee recommended that it lie on the table.

Mr. Richardson of Alabama, during the course of some remarks upon the bill, caustically criticized President Roosevelt's Memorial day oration at Arlington. He recalled the visit of the late President McKinley to Huntsville, Ala., a year ago, the reception given him by the confederate and union veterans. The noble sentiment of McKinley uttered upon that occasion, Mr. Richardson said, endeared him to the south, and he told of the great sorrow felt there when Mr. McKinley fell at Buffalo. Reluctant as he was to do so, Mr. Richardson said he felt it his painful duty to contrast Mr. McKinley's sentiments at Huntsville with Roosevelt's remarks at Arlington, May 20.

He then read that portion of President Roosevelt's speech in which he referred to the epithets applied to Grant and Lincoln, and the resolution passed by the confederate congress denouncing the methods of warfare employed by the Union armies. Mr. Richardson said he should not so far forget his environs as to characterize as it did the saved language which came from the president of the United States upon a solemn Memorial day occasion, when he was being died to the thousands of brave dead who died in defense of their flag. But he would dare to say that it would have been far more appropriate if the president had referred upon that occasion to the magnanimous terms which Grant accorded Lee at Appomattox, which had done so much to reconcile the divided sections.

"I doubt whether there is," said he, "a braver federal soldier what the sound of my voice who would have uttered the sentiments expressed by the president, even in the heat of debate, much less upon a solemn day. I say to the 'savage way of examining the witness' when the president referred to what had been said about Lincoln in the heat of battle when men were aiming at each other's lives."

Mr. Richardson also condemned the president's reference to lynchings in the south.

Further remarks in criticism of some features of the bill by Mr. McKim (Tex.) and Mr. Smith (Ky.), Mr. Littlefield (Mo.) closed the debate with an hour and a half speech in support of the measure.

Having disposed of the first section of the substitute the house, at 5:55 p. m., adjourned.

FURNISHES EXPERT TESTIMONY

Senator Hanna Strongly Opposes
Nicaragua Route.

Washington, June 6.—After transacting some routine business today the senate resumed consideration of the isthmian canal bill. Mr. Hanna of Ohio continuing his argument in support of the Panama canal. The Ohio senator declared that no political considerations were involved in the canal problem.

He presented the opinions of eighty-eight shippers and shippers in favor of the Panama route as against the Nicaragua route, for many reasons, which they cited.

He urged that the construction of the Nicaragua canal was beset with unknown difficulties, while the construction of the Panama canal was "an open book." He laid particular stress on the fact that the Nicaragua route from Valparaiso and urged that it was not good business policy to ignore those dangers in a project involving an expenditure of $200,000,000. In conclusion, Mr. Hanna appealed to the senate to consider the measure as a business proposition and, with some feeling, repudiated the suggestion that those favoring the Panama route were not in favor of any canal.

He alleges negligence on the part of the defendant in allowing the gang plank to remain insecure.

THROWN FROM BICYCLE.

Professor Quay Collides With Express Wagon and Is Hurt.

Professor R. B. Quay, who is well known in the city, met with a serious and painful accident yesterday. He was riding his wheel up Main street over the wet pavement when an express wagon ran in front of him at the corner of Main and Second South. The professor thought the wagon was going to stop and attempted to swerve around it, but the team kept going and the wheel collided with the rear part of the wagon.

Mr. Quay was thrown violently against the hind wheel, striking his right cheek against the tire. As a result the flesh was cut to the bone, from just below the eye to the neck. He was picked up almost unconscious and carried to Dr. Gies's office, where his wound was dressed. It required four stitches to close it. No serious consequences are feared, but the professor will be laid up for several days, it is said.
